Day 1

We will leave Cusco at 6:00am and travel to Calca where we will have breakfast. We will continue to Huaran where we will begin our trek to the community of Cancha Cancha. We will hike uphill for approximately 7 hours to the community of Cancha Cancha. There, we will enjoy dinner and stay the night with a local family as we enjoy views of Pitusiray and Sawasiray in the background.

We will leave Cancha Cancha early in the morning for the Pitusiray and Sawasiray peaks. Along the way we will learn the Inca history of the area. As we reach the highest point of the trek we will see monoliths, as well as the two great mountains. We will hike to a small community called Huaychuyu, where we will be hosted by Benita and her son Jeremías. There, we will spend the night again in front of the mountains.

Day 3

In the morning we will descend to Mama Cocha, a hike of about 2 hours. We will pick up transport and travel to the hot springs of Lares where we can enjoy a hot soak and relax in the thermal baths before continuing to Ollantaytambo to take the train to Machu Picchu village.

Day 4

The day of Machu Picchu has arrived! Early in the morning we will visit the majestic Machu Picchu citadel. This is a day without much walking as we will dedicate ourselves completely to the exploration of the site in the company of our guide. What is the physical condition that we recommend for a trek ?

At Ritisuyo, we offer treks for travelers who enjoy adventure and contact with nature. However, it is also important to keep in mind that trekking is an activity that requires a good physical condition.

We recommend travelers interested in trekking to prepare themselves physically in advance, doing cardiovascular and resistance exercises, to guarantee a pleasant and safe experience. It is important to keep in mind that the trek involves walking on uneven terrain and at altitudes above 3000 meters above sea level. Therefore, it is necessary to have a good lung capacity and be prepared to walk for several hours a day.

Although a trek is a physical challenge, the reward of reaching the summit and contemplating the landscapes of the Andes is unparalleled. For this reason, we recommend that travelers prepare themselves physically so they can enjoy this experience to the fullest.

How is the trek structured?

At Ritisuyo, we offer trek in groups, which we highly recommend. Our groups are led by expert and trained guides who know the route and can provide valuable information about the area.

On our group trips, we make sure to keep the number of people small, which allows for more interaction between hikers and makes the guide's job easier. In addition, our guide determines the pace of the trip according to the group's capabilities and adapts to the needs of the participants.

The groups we organize foster a dynamic of companionship and collaboration in which participants help each other to overcome the challenges of trekking. In addition, our group trips are an excellent opportunity to make new friends and share unforgettable moments in the majestic Andes Mountains.

What is the best time to explore and enjoy the wonder of Machu Picchu?

The best time is between the months of April and October. During these months, the dry season provides more stable and pleasant conditions for hiking and camping in the area, with daytime temperatures usually in the 15°C to 20°C range. In addition, there is less rain and less likelihood of transportation disruptions or flight cancellations. In the months of November through March, the rainy season and weather conditions are less favorable for hiking and camping in the area, making the trek more difficult and potentially dangerous due to slippery trail conditions and flooding.

What clothing should I bring for a trek?

For the trek, it is important to bring adequate clothing that will keep you comfortable, dry and protected from the sun and cold. It is recommended to wear layered clothing, with undergarments that absorb moisture and keep your skin dry, mid layers to keep you warm and a waterproof and windproof jacket as an outer layer to protect you from rain and wind. It is also important to wear comfortable walking clothes, including quick-drying pants and T-shirts, hiking socks and sturdy, comfortable hiking boots that have been previously worn and are well adapted to your feet. It is also recommended to bring a hat or cap for protection from the sun and a small backpack to carry personal items and essentials such as water, sunscreen, insect repellent, etc.

Appropriate clothing for a trek should be comfortable, quick-drying, layered and designed to protect you from the changing weather conditions in the mountains. It is important to remember that the weather in the Cusco region can be unpredictable, so it is best to be prepared for any eventuality.

What is the food like during the trek?

During the trek, food is provided to hikers at camp stops, which means you don't have to worry about bringing your own food. Meals include nutritious food to ensure that hikers have the energy they need to walk long distances and cope with changing weather conditions. The menu usually includes local Peruvian dishes. In addition, food during the trek can be adapted to special dietary needs, such as vegetarians and vegans, as long as they are informed in advance. Drinking water is also provided and trekkers are encouraged to bring their own bottle to refill and reduce the amount of waste generated during the trek.
